Why Marine Omega Fatty Acids Are Superior

Not all Omega-3s are created equal! Omega fatty acids from marine sources like Tasmanian Atlantic Salmon are more beneficial for your pet compared to plant sources like flaxseed or linseed oil. Here's why:

Dogs and cats need Omega 3, 6, and 9 to stay healthy, but it's the Omega-3 forms—DHA (Docosahexaenoic Acid) and EPA (Eicosapentaenoic Acid)—found in marine sources that truly make a difference. While plant-based sources like flaxseed contain ALA (Alpha-linolenic Acid), pets lack the enzymes to efficiently convert ALA into DHA and EPA, which means they're not getting the full benefits.

With Wonderfur Super Omega Oil, your furry friend gets DHA and EPA directly—no conversion needed! These essential fatty acids are key to reducing joint inflammation, boosting immunity, and supporting a glossy coat. Plus, Omega-3s from marine sources are better balanced with Omega-6, giving your pet the ideal blend for overall health.
