PROUDLY DESIGNED AND HAND
CRAFTED IN AUSTRALIA

GRAY-NICOLLS

AUSTRALIAN

GRAY-NICOLLS started making bats in Melbourne, Australia in 1972, as an extension of a long history dating back to 1855 in Robertsbridge, UK, and will celebrate the remarkable milestone of 50 years of Australian production in 2022.

Constantly refining and enhancing its skills, GRAY-NICOLLS is perhaps now regarded as the home of the world's best bats. This is a result of only using the best quality English willow and taking great pride in ensuring every bat is made to the highest standard, striving to ensure their bats have the best rebound and power, to go that bit further over the boundary.

GRAY-NICOLLS have always been at the forefront of innovation and in the hands of the world's elite players. 1977 saw the introduction of the revolutionary Scoop, the choice of Greg and Ian Chappell, which evokes a sense of nostalgia with it being the first bat of many young cricketers of the day.

The Scoop evolved to the Twin Scoop as used by David Hookes, and eventually evolved to the Pro Balance Four Scoop. Powerspot and Powerspot Giant were popular choices in the late 80's.

Always pursuing improvement and eager to remain a vanguard of technology, the Australian development team dared to push the boundary beyond traditional techniques and developed innovations so cutting-edge the MCC banned them.

In the early 90's the Ultimate, which featured hollow core technology, was released and used by David Boon, and the iconic Powerspot was reinvented and redesigned and had further success out in the middle in the hands of Michael Slater.

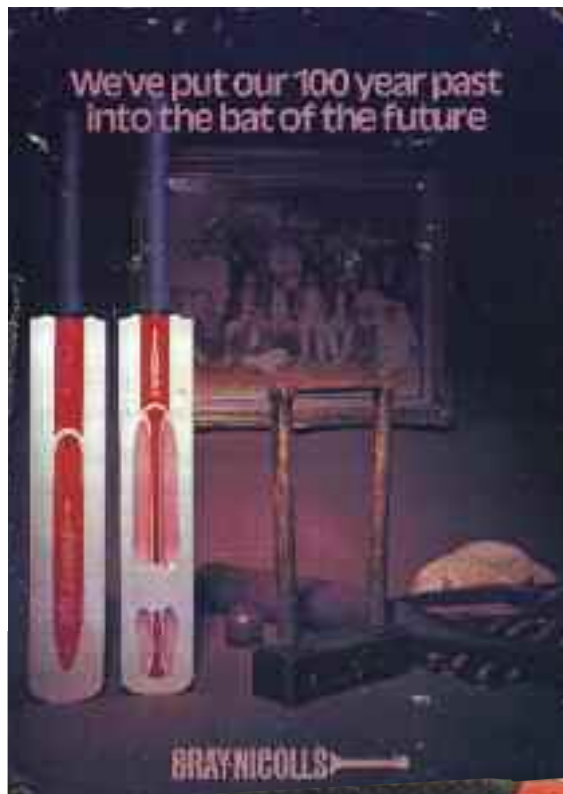

At this time GRAY-NICOLLS had been developing and trialling new pressing techniques which resulted in a new unique bowed shape. This innovation was introduced on the Gladius which was crucial to Matthew Hayden's record breaking 380 runs, and used to great success by Andrew Symonds on the Longbow.

The Fusion hit the world stage in 2005 again in the hands of Matthew Hayden. The lightweight carbon fibre handle was a hit but the MCC deemed it too powerful as they couldn't make Lords any bigger.

The first bat to expand beyond the standard 30-34mm edges was the E41 with its impressive 41mm edges which provided a huge profile while still being lightweight. This Australian innovation also incorporated the ACCU-DRIVE flat face which was developed to enhance rebound and control.

The ability to produce our own oversize clefts resulted in the development of the KABOOM! in conjunction with David Warner. At its peak in 2015 the KABOOM! featured up to 50mm edges, the biggest in the game. The MCC saw this as an unfair advantage and soon introduced bat size laws with which manufacturers must now comply.

GRAY-NICOLLS continue striving for excellence, and endeavour to develop industry leading innovations to revolutionise the equipment crafted for a game loved across the world, for generations.

STORY

Keen cricketer and all round good guy, Stuart Kranzbuhler, was given the opportunity to work for GRAY-NICOLLS at the age of 20 where he has honed his craft and over 27 years has become one of the world's true master bat makers.

Initial training as a cabinet maker provided Stuart with the fundamental tools required to work with timber. After visits to our willow program in England and learning about the growth and development of the trees, Stuart possesses a unique comprehension of the characteristics of willow which allows him to grade clefts with incredible precision. It is this understanding that allows Stuart to continually develop new shapes and to get the best results out of a cleft of willow.

Stuart has hand-picked and personally trained the production team in the traditional methods of hand crafting bats, ensuring that they have perfected aspects of the process. Drawing on over 140 years of bat-making history, the team continue to hand craft bats using a combination of traditional techniques and innovative methods resulting in a product of exceptional quality. The production team come from all over the world and make for a wonderfully diverse group, complementing each other with the particular skillsets they bring to the line-up.

Najib's eagerness to learn and his ambition for perfection is impressive and he has become quite the bat maker. Originally training as a carpenter in Afghanistan, Najib arrived in Australia in 2013 and started working under Stuart's watchful eye in 2014. Everything Najib turns his hand to is completed with a sense of pride.

After an impressive career making bats at County, Maurie joined the G-N team when GRAY-NICOLLS and County merged in 1999. With over 36 years in the trade Maurie brings with him a wealth of experience and a great passion that every task he performs is completed with precision.

Christine started working for GRAY-NICOLLS in 2001 and her extraordinary attention to detail quickly caught Stuart's attention. Christine proudly completes the bat making process, meticulously hand-applying labels to all bats crafted in the factory, ensuring each bat is shelf-ready perfection before it leaves her domain.

We are proud to be employing a diverse team and providing Australian manufacturing jobs.

We are proud to have once again joined the Australian Made initiative. Bats carrying the iconic green and gold AUSTRALIAN MADE kangaroo logo are proudly MADE IN AUSTRALIA at GRAY-NICOLLS' Melbourne factory.
