The Apto Journey

Purpose designed for safety...

Gaye Francis - Founder

Gaye Francis is an experienced risk and due diligence engineer and highly effective project manager, with a diverse range of project experience collected over 20 years of consulting activities with R2A Due Diligence Engineers. Gaye has worked with both private and government clients across a wide range of industries including road, rail, marine, mining, aviation and water.

The idea of designing PPE for women, including maternity, started as an Engineers' Australia - Women in Engineering project for the International Conference of Women Engineers and Scientists in 2011. The agenda was to raise awareness of the issues around women wearing men's PPE and to demonstrate women's PPE could be done.

From this passion project, Apto was founded to design, manufacture and sell fit-for-purpose PPE that's safe and comfortable for women. With a commitment to working locally, Apto worked in partnership with our Australian designer Linh Thai from the Designer's Assistant to develop three shirts and two pairs of pants for our Signature and Maternity ranges. These were then tested on site and refined to ensure optimum safety, comfort and style.

In 2015, with two founding Directors' departure for personal reasons, I decided to continue Apto with R2A buying the business. But, it stood still for a few years while I had my family.

In this time, I was hoping others would take up the cause, but I continued to hear and see women's stories that indicated little had changed. Even more disheartening, that our collective voice had diminished. Maybe out of exhaustion!?

Early last year I decided, with my R2A business partner's support, to re-launch Apto with a re-energised commitment to deliver women the safe, comfortable and stylish PPE they deserve. It's been a bit of a journey sorting out the designs and manufacturing side of things, but we're finally fully stocked with our range available to purchase. I am proud to say that all our garments are manufactured here in Melbourne by Jimmy Nguyen of LCN Fashion to a high quality.

And as we start to market, we are hearing women celebrating the concept and telling us to 'shout' and 'fight' for all women who require PPE to simply do their work.

We also know some organisations are starting to listen to the needs of women needing fit-for-purpose workwear – if presented.

The problem of ill-fitting PPE for women is well known and has been known for a long time. But Apto's focus is on the solution rather than the issue. We are proud to offer quality Australian designed and made garments that are safe, comfortable and stylish.

Gaye Francis (July 2020)

Apto's Vision

Fit-for-purpose womens workwear...

As women in traditionally male industries, our vision is for an inclusive profession that embraces diversity. We hope that our women's protective workwear range will start positive conversations about diversity within organisations especially out on site. It is important that the needs of women in our industries are recognised and that they don't have to make do with less safe, unstylish down sized versions of men's PPE. Apto PPE celebrates women in the engineering and construction industries by providing flexible and innovative PPE designs.

Women's Safety

Women have traditionally worn downsized men's clothing. This means protective workwear that's too loose or tight in different areas, arms and legs too long, and restricted movement. Not exactly safe or "protective" and very uncomfortable.

The Apto range is designed for the female shape and complies with AS 4602 for high visibility safety garments.

Acceptance & Diversity

Companies promoting a fit for purpose female PPE range will naturally promote acceptance and diversity on site, giving your female staff the confidence to participate and feel accepted. We want women wearing Apto to unapologetically embrace their identity, no longer needing to dress like a man to fit in, because it's exhausting being two different people – 'one of the boys' and ourselves.

Comfortable & Practical

Our range has been tested by women for comfort and practicality on the job. Just like the women who wear Apto, the clothing is job focused with every design feature carefully considered and tested to ensure the best possible performance, allowing the wearer to focus on their job.

Maternity PPE Range

Maybe the most difficult time to conform to a male-centred industry is during pregnancy, and we couldn't design female protective workwear without a maternity range. It's essential pregnant women continue to work safely in their roles wearing PPE and that they feel comfortable

Alternative Fabric Options

We can offer our products in different fabric colours and weights upon request. Please contact us to discuss what options are available.

Please be aware that this may affect whether the product adheres to compliance standards. Custom orders will take 6 - 14 weeks to manufacture and deliver.

Embroidery Services

We also offer an embroidery service if you would like a logo or/and name embroidered onto the items.

Please contact us to discuss further.

Depending on the design and number of items, this process can take 2 - 4 weeks.

Apto meaning to fit, to adapt,
to make ready,
to adjust.
